

Densel Seized As White Slave Act Violator

Pastor Who Eloped With Choir Girl Arraigned Before U. S. Commissioner; Released in $5,000 Bail

Crowds Watch Arrest Answer Is Not Yet Filed to Joint Suits of Hannenbergs for Damages

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 8.—The Rev. Cornelius Densel, ex-pastor of the First Netherlands Reformed Church of this city, already the defendant in two suits for a total of $35,000 damages as a result of his elopement with Trina Hannenberg, a choir girl in his church, was arrested in his home today on a Federal warrant charging violation of the Mann act, arraigned in Paterson before United States Commissioner Joseph A. Delaney and released in $5,000 bail pending the action of the United States Grand Jury, which has been asked to indict him.

Bail for Mr. Densel was furnished by Richard Dunksloot, father of William Dunksloot, who is the husband of Mr. Densel's daughter, after Mr. Densel had waived reading of the complaint.

Mr. Densel was arrested by Albert Ettelson, of Newark, United States marshal, who arrived at the Densel home at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. As the marshal entered the home a crowd of about sixty men and women pressed forward but none was permitted to enter.

After the crowd, including several newspaper reporters and camera men, had waited about an hour and a half, Mr. Densel came out of the house with the marshal. They were accompanied by Densel's son, Cornelius, on one side, another son, Cornelius, on the other, and Densel's daughter, Mrs. William Dunksloot, and her attorney, William H. J. Ely, of Rutherford, N. J., in the rear.

The crowd again pressed forward and some men spoke to the accused minister, but he ignored their remarks, as well as the questions of the newspaper men, and walked through the latter, escorted by the marshal, without any sign of emotion. Dressed solemnly in a long black overcoat, black suit, black hat and black tie, he scanned the faces of the reporters and camera men with a depressed, masked expression. As the crowd came closer the marshal and his prisoner increased their pace, not in an automobile, and drove to Paterson, and, including the newspaper men, followed in automobiles.

Prisoner Is Arraigned

Upon his arrival in Paterson, Mr. Densel was arraigned before United States Commissioner Delaney. He sat beside the Commissioner's desk while the formalities were being conducted, but did not speak. After a few minutes he shook hands silently with the Commissioner and with a reporter for the Passaic newspaper, then left the room.

Upon his arrival at his home in Passaic a short time afterward with two sons, Mr. Densel was approached by reporters and camera men, and they asked him questions. His attorney, Mr. Ely, also came to discuss the case.

The delay of an hour and a half between the time of the arrest of the pastor and the time of his arrival at his home, and the departure for Paterson was explained by the marshal in a statement as follows:

"When I got into the house, I saw Mrs. Densel. Mr. Densel apparently did not know I was coming at that time for he was in the bathtub. I had to wait until he finished his bath. Then I allowed him to go to see his daughter, Mrs. Dunksloot, who lives just around the corner, in Prospect street. Mr. Densel went to her home, and after a short stay, he returned here, and returned in about fifteen minutes." The marshal declined to reveal anything about Mr. Densel's conduct on the way to Paterson, or to say whether Mr. Densel talked at all.

The next development in the criminal action against Mr. Densel will depend upon the action of the United States Grand Jury. Commissioner Delaney said today that he could not say when the jury will consider the complaint against the minister. Mr. Densel's attorney, Mr. Ely, has not yet filed answer to the suits filed against his client by Miss Hannenberg for $25,000 for seduction and breach of promise to marry, and by her parents for $10,000 damages for humiliation. Mr. Ely said that he was going to the minister's residence with the girl.

Many American Mechanics Reported Working in Russia

PARIS, Jan. 8.—A wireless message from Moscow says that a great many mechanics in the Donetz coal basin of Russia have caused considerable speculation in diplomatic circles here, coming after reports from Berlin to the effect that four thousand Americans now in Germany are going to the same region to man the factories.

Most of these men are said to be experienced in automobile construction.

Incendiaries Suspected in City Hall Fire in Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, Jan. 8.—Fire seriously damaged the City Hall in Guatemala yesterday, the civil registrar's office and the municipal library being in the section of the building where the flames originated.

Many records and the contents of the library were saved. Indications are the fire was of incendiary origin.

The Printing Salesman We Want

—Is at present one of the best three in New York City, having demonstrated this fact by what he has achieved during the past five years. He has the inward urge to grasp the opportunity when it occurs to move from the "best three" to the "one best" class. We are able to offer this opportunity to him at this time. It will carry with it an income attractively greater than he is now earning and the probability of becoming Sales Manager of one of New York's largest printing houses. Inquiries will be treated with strict confidence, and should contain a brief account of the applicant's experience and what he has accomplished. Address, Box D-205, Tribune.

Lady From Oklahoma Cruises Incognito Along Broadway

Marvels at Automats and Patent Kitchen Jigamarees; Gives Motherly Advice to Bride; Anti-Suffragist, Only Woman in Congress, Unversed in Politics

"The Lady from Oklahoma," Congresswoman Alice M. Robertson, is in New York "incog." At the hotel where she registered as plain Miss Robertson the identity of the stately, white-haired woman was unsuspected, and she had as much fun cruising about Broadway yesterday unattended by members of the Republican National Committee as ever Haroun-Al-Raschid had in poking about Bagdad without a retinue.

The feminine instinct of the Lady from Oklahoma and the scientific interest of the veteran restaurateur kept her at the kitchen for a long time. There she feasted her eyes upon the shining rows of kettles and percolators and stoves which she noted the home-sick hearts of Oklahoma soldiers in her cafeteria during the war and made them remember her at the polls last fall.

The feminine instinct of the Lady from Oklahoma and the scientific interest of the veteran restaurateur kept her at the kitchen for a long time. There she feasted her eyes upon the shining rows of kettles and percolators and stoves which she noted the home-sick hearts of Oklahoma soldiers in her cafeteria during the war and made them remember her at the polls last fall.

Bride Grateful for Advice

"Just let me give you a bit of advice," she suggested. "You pick out a knife that has the steel running back to the end of the handle and is riveted to the wood. Then it won't fall to pieces."

The bride expressed her thanks and wanted to know the name of her benefactress.

"Oh, I'm a veteran housekeeper, that's all," said the lady from Oklahoma, and went away chuckling.

The noon hour she put in watching the crowd in the automat, which institution she pronounced "mighty queer" and was delighted to notice that the working girls, now that they have the money, also intelligence enough to eat a bowl of soup and red for lunch, instead of the once popular chocolate cream.

Miss Robertson refused to talk politics, save in the most terse way. What she is on her way to Hartford, Conn., where she will be one of the guests at the celebration on Wednesday in honor of the five women members of the Legislature.

Only Training in Politics

"I am not a finished politician yet," she said. "I'm only in training. That is why I do not feel like expressing an opinion on Congressional matters. I can tell you what I think about women's place in politics, though."

"You know I was anti-suffragist. Yes, I was. Vice-president of the state association, though I never did much except hand out a few leaflets, and in the last campaign, when the women finally won the vote, I was too busy running my cafeteria to vote much. But after we got the vote, and the men wanted me to run for office, I said, 'Well, now we women didn't want this thing. It's your doing, and we want to know just what it is you expect us to do with it. There is no excuse for it unless we women turn your rotten politics into good government.' So I told the women it was their duty to register and vote this fall, in order to get the money I told them they were slackers just as much as drafted men who tried to evade the service to which they had been called."

Shows Famous Advertisements

Miss Robertson had with her some copies of her famous advertisements which she ran in the personal columns of the Oklahoma papers under the caption "Savoka Cafeteria," the name of the restaurant which she conducted for the soldiers during the war.

These advertisements were her sole campaign activity in the war, and she answered the attacks of her opponent—the Democratic member of Congress—and she filled in the space with bits of homely kitchen wisdom which showed the women of Oklahoma that they really were in politics.

It was an anti-suffragist, running in a solid Democratic district, against the most popular man in the State, she said. "How did I do it? Well, I don't know, really. Sometimes I say it was my mother. All my life I have been doing things people said couldn't be done."

"To be definite, I credit it to the Indians, who had always been my friends. You know, my father was a missionary, and I taught in the mission school until President Roosevelt appointed me postmaster. And then there were the soldiers. I didn't consider that they owed me anything for what I did for them during the war, and I said throughout the campaign that I would be satisfied if I got 50 per cent of their votes. And then there were the women. Although, of course, some of the suffragists worked against me."

Miss Robertson smiled her mischievous smile when asked about her plans for life in Washington. "I guess I'm as badly off as Governor Coolidge. I've got to go house hunting, too," she said. "I have to live on my salary and save up something besides. I have a reputation for being well off, but that is only because I was taught to give, and give until it hurts. Most people only give what doesn't hurt, and so, if you give much, the world thinks you have lots to give."

Hon. Guy V. Hardy, Cannon, City, Col. Accept heartiest congratulations on re-nomination. Best wishes for re-election. Your splendid record deserves the hearty support of all local citizens in your district. Your activities as a first-term man made a record in the House of Representatives. I have expressed the sentiments of our Republican colleagues when I say that you're needed in the House of Representatives. All voters having an interest of their district at heart and desirous of the welfare and happiness of their country should actively support and bring about your election.

"Despicable," O'Connor's Comment. William O'Connor, legislative secretary in the office of the President of the Board of Aldermen for the last sixteen years, characterized Communist policy charges as "despicable" when he heard of them last night at the dinner.

the Amen Corner dinner, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

He said that Mr. LaGuardia had cautioned him repeatedly to see that no one of his personal telegrams were charged to the city. The personal messages were checked off by Mr. LaGuardia's secretary, he said, and he took the monthly bill to the telephone office and paid for the personal messages with a check drawn by Mr. LaGuardia.

Bigger Congress Is Held An Unnecessary Expense

Minority Contends 435 Representatives Can Do the Work as Well as 483

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Opposition to any increase in the membership of the House on the ground that the resultant addition to the burden of public expenditures would not be justified at this time, is expressed in the report filed today by minority members of the Census Committee on the Slegel reappointment bill. The minority views were signed by six members of the committee, headed by Representative Louis W. Fairchild, of Indiana.

"There is no public service that can be rendered by 483 members that can not be rendered just as efficiently, if not more so, by 435 members," the report says. "Additional clerks, when necessary, will undoubtedly care for any increase in the work required of members."

"It is our opinion that there is no public demand for an increased membership of the House. Our citizens are already taxed more than $5,000,000,000 per year to meet the annual public expenditures, and we do not feel that the proposed additional burden is either necessary or can be justified."

The cost of the increase to 483 members proposed in the Slegel measure, as estimated by the minority members of the committee to be about $5,000,000 for the first year. They point out that office facilities in the Capitol and House office buildings are already overcrowded and the erection of a new building probably would cost at least $5,000,000.

In addition to this expense, increases in salaries for members would amount to $300,000 annually; clerk hire, $176,650; mileage, $240,000; franks, messengers and postage, $2,000; stationery allowance, $20,000; additional force for maintenance of quarters, $70,000; in all more than $1,000,000 annually.

Fugitive, Wanted in $200,000 Swindles Here, Held in Vienna

Izidore Krumholz Accused of Defrauding More Than 500, Mostly Immigrants, in Pawnshop Operations

VIENNA, Jan. 8.—On the request of the New York police a man whose name is given as Izidore Krumholz, was arrested here yesterday in connection, it was stated, with charges involving the theft of $50,000 in New York.

Suspicion that Krumholz was in Vienna, the police here explain, was aroused by the fact that his wife and family, who had been living in poor circumstances, suddenly displayed ability to purchase jewels, watches and furniture.

When a search revealed the whereabouts of Krumholz and he was arrested he denied possession of any illegally acquired money. The authorities say in this connection that men representing themselves as policemen three days ago visited lodgings Krumholz had just vacated and removed a parcel said to contain American money. The police disclaim knowledge as to whether the bogus policemen were accomplices of Krumholz or swindlers acting on their own account.

Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy, who has been handling the Krumholz matter ever since the latter left the United States on the Rochambeau, on October 28 last, explained that the man is wanted for swindling more than five hundred complainants, of whom many were immigrants, chiefly Jewish, out of approximately $200,000. Krumholz, he said, lived at 107 Ludlow street and was a sort of traveling pawnbroker, lending his victims a little money on their jewelry. When they returned with money for their jewelry Krumholz would take the money, but would not return the jewelry, it was charged. Finally, when things became too warm, he left the country on a passport obtained through the Swedish Legation, Mr. Murphy said.

Following Krumholz's disappearance, Detective Bernard A. Flood, who was a major in the A. E. F. during the war and who before his return visited the capitals of Europe exchanging confidences with the police of those cities, told the Paris police specifically about the Krumholz case and the latter conveyed this information to the Vienna police. It is the result that Krumholz was arrested.

Just how Mr. Murphy expects to get Krumholz is not known, since Austria and the United States are still technically at war.

Raid on Tammany Rendezvous Gives Police a Busy Day

Search for the Thieves Who Held Up Siegel's Restaurant Is Vigorous, Even if It Brings No Results

Invasion by hold-up men of one of the favorite rendezvous of Tammany politicians, Hugo Siegel's restaurant, at 349 Third Avenue, in Boss Murphy's own district, Friday night, caused Commissioner Enright's picked sleuths a lot of hard, if unsuccessful, work yesterday.

It was reported that all of the available auto and motorcycle patrols and star detectives were detailed to search energetically for the three youths who dared to enter the hangout of politicians and stage a hold-up. Deputy City Clerk "Mike" Cruise, one of the Tammany leaders, was summarily ordered to put up his hands with the nine other persons in the place. He was not robbed, however, as the bandits lost their nerve and departed before they reached him.

Their identity hidden under white masks, the three youths, none of whom appeared to be more than twenty years old, according to the victims, entered the place about 10:30 p. m., giving a sudden order to all to throw up their hands "or be blown to hell."

The robbers got $40 from the till. Jacob Keith and Jacob Fritsch, who live in Glendale, Queens, lost $90 and $70, respectively. Proprietor Hugo Siegel permitted the thieves to remove the change he had in his pockets.

The robbers suddenly decided to back out of the restaurant, keeping the patrons covered, when they heard a police whistle. Daniel Lambert had managed to slip out the back door and blow the signal for the police.

Sergeant Cahill, of the East Twenty-second Street station, heard the signal from a few blocks off, where he was on duty in a side car, but he arrived too late to give chase.

Hugo Siegel's in Third Avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, is patronized by physicians from Bellevue Hospital also. Only a minute after the departure of the bandits along came City Medical Examiner Charles Norris and his first deputy, Dr. Benjamin Schwartz. "Thank the Lord I wasn't here," he commented.

Peru's League Delegate Denies Criticizing Harding

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 8.—Dr. Mariano Cornejo, Peruvian delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations, who was recalled by his government from Geneva after he had given an interview to a Paris newspaper in which he was quoted as criticizing the attitude of President-elect Harding toward the League of Nations, reached home from Europe to-day. Dr. Cornejo said he had returned to defend himself and to make clear the true reasons for his dismissal.

Dr. Cornejo denied having referred to Senator Harding's reputed plans as "childish and dangerous," and he expressed most friendly sentiments toward the United States.
